Introduction

Education, being the principal tool for the development of human resources, has a direct contribution towards achievement of economic goals and aspiration of the country. This is more so in the field of technical education, since the major emphasis in this area is equipping the manpower with requisite skills with the object of maximizing man's contribution to the production of goods and serving the community needs. The techniques and process of production of goods and service do not make a demand only on technical skills, but on a cluster or conglomerate of skills – significant.

Part of which is related to the humanistic growth of the man. Such conglomerate of skills technical and humanistic cannot obviously be acquired through pure academic learning of concepts in formalized and institutional courses and in isolation of actual work situation. It, therefore, naturally follows that no technical education will complete till it has two complements, one learning of concepts vis-à-vis acquiring conceptual skills and the other application of the concepts in real work situation vis-à-vis acquiring manipulative or practicing skill again, since application of concepts can only be learnt in actual work situation as these exists in industry and business, where goods and services are being produced, technical education needs to have a complement of learning of the techniques of applying the concepts within the industry and business through programmes of INDUSTRY – INSTITUTE COLLABORATION.

In view of the above, MIT, Aurangabad is imparting technical education in Architecture course of Higher level, carrying Degree Course, making provision of the elements of development of skills, an in-plant training, project work and seminar etc. to bridge the gap between the manpower which is made available through Institutions and the manpower required by the industry. This gap is perceived in following areas.

Gap: Inability to put knowledge and skill into practice.

Gap: Inability to adjust with industrial environment in short time and commitment.

Excelize Software Pvt. Ltd. and its parent company Excelize Inc. in the United States are engaged in the business of Architectural BPO i.e. providing design drafting services & technology solutions to architecture firms worldwide. Excelize has successfully executed more than 25 projects for different architecture firms in the United States. Excelize currently has eight customers and a staff of 15 employees. It's experiencing rapid growth in its customer base and the volume of work it executes.

Therefore, the efforts are being made to bridge the above stated gaps through this Memorandum of Understanding between MIT and Excelize Software Pvt. Ltd.

Objectives and Goals

Excelize lab will be a joint effort of Excelize Software Pvt. Ltd. and MIT. The lab will be a long term association working towards following goals:

In order to assure progress in attaining the goals described in this Agreement, it is agreed that the Director of MIT, Aurangabad and Excelize Systems will annually review the scope and progress of the cooperative activity between Excelize and MIT and policies and programmes related to this Memorandum of Understanding.

Termination Terms

MIT and Excelize Systems will endeavor to address and correct the concerns of the party, who wishes to withdraw. If those efforts are not successful this Memorandum of Understanding will stand terminated.

Limitations / Boundaries and Future Possibilities

1. The association is currently a non-profit making organization, not funded by Excelize to do any research work, and is strictly aimed to provide better industry awareness to MIT students and creating an assured source of manpower for Excelize. Though funding for research work is not in scope right now, it is highly possible that Excelize would like to go for that option very soon.
2. The lab is currently limited for MIT students only. This can be extended to students from other colleges on MIT's discretion. MIT and Excelize can also work out on some fees structure for students from other institutes, which will be used entirely for the Lab's development.

Amendments

Amendments to this Memorandum of Understanding may be proposed either by the undersigned or their successors and shall become effective only if agreed to in writing by the undersigned or their successors.
